2015 Student Exchange a Huge Success!

Congratulations to all for a banner year for the Student Exchange Program! Not only did the students exceed all prior years with their fundraising efforts due to an early start and some fresh new ideas, it was the first full year for Summer Program Coordinators David and Dede Carrera. Under their guidance, we enjoyed the first Open Mic Night, and the first Rubio's fundraiser. We sent 33 students to 9 countries, and hosted the first set of twins, from Carlow.

Educator Exchange Program

Educator Exchange Core Team Semi-Annual Meeting

The semi-annual meeting of the Core Team was held at the home of Linda Parrish on Thursday evening, Aug. 13. As Linda said, "It's always such a treat to see each other and have a chance to visit." In addition to enjoying one another's company once again, we always manage to accomplish the preliminary planning for the next year's exchange. Following is a brief summary of the more important discussions and actions.

We happily welcomed Linda Barnett to the Core Team. Linda is a TSC Board Member and also the ASU Liaison to the board. Country liaisons had reports to share about the summer exchange. All educators are back safe and sound and had positive experiences. We had a productive discussion and came up with many good ideas on how to advertise effectively in all schools, but specifically the high schools. Time was spent discussing preparations for an exchange program for Dr. Carlos Soria, a musicology professor at the University of Cuenca who will be visiting during Oktoberfest.

We thank Sharon Doyle and Jan O'Malley for their help in reviewing last year's schedule and preparing dates for Sandy Swanson and Linda Parrish to use in their work with updating this year's application and interview schedule. Listed below are the dates which will be put on the TSC webpage for the upcoming exchanges.

Day One of My New Zealand Adventure

When I first arrived in Wellington, New Zealand I was very excited to see my host Roanna Reidy for the first time. She took me immediately to her house to grab a bite to eat and freshen up. Even though I was tired from the flight, I was anxious to visit her school.

We then headed to Boulcott School were Roanna teaches year one (kindergarten) students.

Greg, the principal welcomed me and my travel partner

Jeff. We discussed how their education systems works and the similarities and differences of both our countries. Greg was very generous with his time and let us tour the entire school. We would end up visiting twelve schools and every principal would be just as generous with their time.

After our tour, Greg escorted us to the gym where the entire school welcomed us with a traditional Maori powhiri or greeting. Both Jeff and I were touched by this event. The students sang beautifully and were in sync with their hand gestures. The pride in their faces, their sincerity and enthusiasm was overwhelming. Boulcott School was impressive to say the least. They really made us feel honored and special.

Roanna then took us for a quick bite at The Boat Café where we shared some yummy fish and chips. Jeff had delicious seafood gumbo. The weather was rainy, windy, and cold but I didn't mind because I was finally in New Zealand!

My first day in New Zealand was spectacular! My very gracious host Roanna made sure I was comfortable and felt at home. Little did I know there would more exciting adventures to come.

Embracing Cultural Diversity in Lower Hutt

As Patty and I sit in Maori class with our host Roanna, I can't help but begin to reflect on all the wonderful experiences we have had that directly include the Maori culture. When we arrived in New Zealand, a cold, rainy Mother Nature welcomed us. Soon we were warmly welcomed by our host Roanna and began an immersion of sorts into the Maori culture.

We were welcomed into Boulcott School by the entire student body and staff in the gymnasium. A female student led us into the gym with chanting that was met by a male student's response; we now know his as the Haka, a traditional Maori welcome. We were seated in the front and treated to beautiful music and movements that almost brought me to tears. We were welcomed and thanked with similar events at several other schools. My description will never accurately describe the feelings contained inside during these rituals. As we continued on our tour throughout the schools and the country we were repeatedly exposed to art, music, statues, Marae, and other aspects that are critical to the Maori culture. The pinnacle event was Polyfest; a festival of student performances including Maori, Polynesian, and other Pacific Islanders. Each school presented different songs and movements in celebration of one another's culture. No matter what their ethnicity, color, or background, everyone participated with great pride. The audience was equally excited at the performances and diversity of the students.

As Patty and I spoke about the numerous, emotional, colorful displays we were incredibly envious of the cultural sharing that takes place in New Zealand. As educators we made a vow to include and embrace cultural differences even more so as result of our experience in the educator exchange.

The beauty of the landscape, people, and culture is overwhelming and will forever be etched, not only in my mind, but in my being. I am forever thankful to Roanna and the sister cities for this experience of a lifetime.

Tales from Beaulieu sur Mer, France

The English translation of Beaulieu-sur-Mer is "beautiful place on the sea" and it could not be more appropriate. The beauty of the Mediterranean Sea and its coasts speckled with pink, orange, and yellow houses is indescribable. Pictures do not do it justice and you really can't grasp the complete essence of it unless you experience it in person. Lucky for me and the other 3 delegates, we have been able to experience it.

These past few weeks have been nothing short of amazing. We've been acclimating to French culture and getting used to their crazy driving, narrow roads, and different eating habits. Every day has been an adventure, whether it is spending all day at the beach in Beaulieu, playing volleyball, walking around in Old Nice, exploring Monaco, or simply playing cards all together at night. Some highlights of our trip thus far are eating delicious ice cream every day, biking along the coast in the San Remo, Italy, going paddle boarding in the Mediterranean Sea, and taking a day trip to the Lérnin Islands. Meeting the mayor of Beaulieu and visiting famo Lérnin Islands. Meeting the mayor of Beaulieu and visiting famous spots like Villa Kerylos were also some great experiences that made us feel more at home in Beaulieu. One day, we hiked all the way from the top of the mountain in La Turbie to the beach in Cap D'ail. The view for the whole trek was breathtaking, and absolutely worth the 2 hour hike.

Our weekend in Sospel, France at Isabelle's country home was also an amazing experience. We spent the weekend canoeing, exploring the city of Sospel, camping, and eating great food, of course. We are excited for the rest of our trip here in Beaulieu as well as the fun times we will have in Tempe with all of the other delegates. This is a truly a once in a lifetime opportunity that we are extremely grateful for and will never forget!!
